TWO TYPES OF LEADERSHIP

➤ Outcome-Based Leadership

- The leader has a primary focus on the desired outcomes and leads to develop an organization that will produce the outcomes.

➤ Missional Leadership

- The leader has a primary focus on the purpose of the organization, relative to those it serves, and leads to develop an organization that will fulfill its purpose.

OUTCOME- BASED LEADERSHIP

The leader has a primary focus on the desired outcomes and leads to develop an organization that will produce the outcomes.

This can be successful, but it can never be great.

- If goals are reached early, the team will tend to quit.
- If goals are not incentivized, they are often not reached.
- Organizations are mocked or create anger.
- Can become successful on whatever you focus on, but that doesn't mean you will ever be great or awesome.

MISSIONAL LEADERSHIP

The leader has a primary focus on the purpose of the organization, relative to those it serves, and leads to develop an organization that will fulfill its purpose.

You're more likely to be successful and GREAT, which also creates financial performance wins.

- What about reporting how much money you have saved your customers this year instead of how many new accounts you added?
- Leadership is single handedly the delineating factor in effective culture changes in Missional Leadership. It requires intense focus on cultural attitudes, engaged employees, all to deliver outstanding service that benefits the organization.
- Behavioral change is primary focus.
